

If you are looking at having some major work done to your vessel whether that be electrical, mechanical, hydraulic or work to the interior it can be a relief to you the owner to have someone working on your side who represents you and is looking after your interests.

I work with owners to do just that. I become your eyes and ears at the repair yard to ensure that you are getting what you expect, that there are no unexpected surprises, ensuring that the job is on time and costs of the job are within the quote.

I have project managed the installation of an Atlas power conversion system, replacement of the complete electronics systems on a motor yacht, the installation of a significantly larger bow thruster, the replacement of a hydraulic steering system and the refurbishment of a galley on various vessels.

I also have over 20 years of project management experience with some Fortune 500 companies.
