

Craig has been involved in sea trials for both new build and refitted yachts. His professional background prior to becoming a licensed captain helps to ensure that he methodically reviews each and every aspect of the work that has been done on the vessel prior to it being signed off. This includes sea trials either to ensure that the work has been successfully completed to your requirements or to work with the surveyor from your chosen classification society.

If the work done on your vessel is to the appropriate standard then he will either sign off the work on your behalf or advise you that the work is completed correctly.

If the work is not up to standard he will advise you and work with the shipyard or repairer to ensure that the work is completed to the required standard at no extra cost to you.
